Arrest of Anti-Basque Commandos in France

A French newspaper reported on 28 August the arrest of two Spanish terrorists who presumably were planning to attack Basque facilities and personnel in southern France. The two men reportedly were carrying a relatively large arsenal and a list of about 50 names and photographs of Basque political refugees located in southern France near the Spanish border. There have been numerous reports that Spanish police and terrorists belonging to a group called "Guerrillas for Christ the King" have been responsible for attacks against Basques in France in the past few months. NOTES

Accidental Bomb Explosion near U.S. Base in Japan

Early on 4 September a devastating explosion occurred in a residential area of Yokosuka, Japan, where a large U.S. naval base is located. Five people were killed, several more were injured, and about 20 neighboring houses were damaged. Police attributed the explosion to a bungled attempt to assemble a bomb. Those believed to be making the bomb were members of the radical Chukaku faction, the same group that apparently tried to plant a bomb near the Crown Prince's palace in Tokyo later the same day. Police arrested two men who drove up to a palace gate and fled when police approached. When apprehended they were found to have parts of a time bomb in their car. According to the Japanese press, police believe they planned a blast at the palace to protest the Emperor's coming visit to the U.S.

While there is no actual evidence that the terrorists killed in Yokosuka were planning to bomb the U.S. base, this seems a likely target for a protest against the Emperor's visit. (UNCLASSIFIED)

A bomb exploded in the lobby of the Hilton Hotel in London, killing two and injuring more than 40. Army bomb experts discovered and set off a second bomb at the hotel. Associated Newspapers in London received a warning from an anonymous caller with an Irish accent that the bomb would go off. The call came too late to evacuate the hotel before the bomb exploded. Police think the Irish Republican Army is responsible.

Peter Lorenz Kidnappers Arrested in West Berlin

Ralf Reinders, leader of the 2 June Movement and identified by Peter Lorenz as a member of the group that kidnapped him in February 1975 (see issue of 4 March 1975), was arrested in West Berlin on 9 September 1975. Also arrested were two women members of the terrorist group--Inge Viett, a former teacher, and Juliane ("Inge") Plambeck, not previously known to be connected with the 2 June Movement. The trio was seized during a raid on an abandoned grocery store in the Steglitz area of West Berlin, which had been under surveillance by the police for about a week as a result of a tip received from neighbors.

All three have reportedly refused to talk. According to press reports, however, Mr. Lorenz identified his briefcase, two notebooks and auto registration papers among the items seized by the police during the raid. The police also picked up 1,000 rounds of ammunition and 18 sticks of explosives at the time of the arrests, conducted searches of six other apartments in West Berlin, and issued arrest warrants for four other suspects. Ralf Reinders is also suspected of being responsible for the murder of West Berlin's Chief Judge Von Drenkmann in November 1974.

Anarchist Fritz Tufel, also wanted for the Lorenz kidnapping, was detained in West Berlin during a police sweep following the 13 September bombing of Hamburg's main railroad station. The Red Army Faction urban guerrilla gang (a name sometimes used by the Baader-Meinhof group) claimed responsibility for that act and warned that other bombs were hidden in the terminal, causing widespread panic and virtually halting all traffic in one of Germany's busiest stations.

Egypt Denies Report of Assassination Attempt Against Sadat

On 10 September an official Egyptian spokesman denied a Voice of Palestine radio report from Baghdad that an assassination attempt had been made on the life of Egyptian President Sadat. The VOP report claimed that Sadat miraculously escaped an assassination attempt in Alexandria following the signing of the "conspiratorial" document with Israel. The Egyptian official said that the report was "sheer invention and without any basis" and that Sadat had returned to Cairo from Alexandria more than a week ago. VOP from Baghdad has a reputation as being an unreliable source. The VOP report might be a psychological ploy to intimidate Sadat or to foment confusion and dissent in Egypt. (UNCLASSIFIED)

French Archeologist Still Held by Chad Rebels

Moslem rebels of the Toubou tribe in Chad have been holding a French archeologist, Francoise Claustre, for 17 months and have now threatened to kill her if the French government does not pay them a ransom of $2.2 million, most of it in arms, by 23 September. The French have been reluctant to meet these demands for fear of antagonizing the government of Chad, which refuses to negotiate with the rebels. In early June the French press had reported that Mrs. Claustre was dead; however, an exclusive interview with her was made public on 10 September. Apparently succumbing to public pressure, the French announced on 13 September that they would pay the money. Their statement did not mention whether weapons would make up part of the ransom.

The Toubou tribal chief, accompanied by some government of Chad officials, is on his way to meet with the rebels to negotiate Claustre's release, according to a 15 September press report. The rebels are also holding the archeologist's husband and a French missionary. No demands have been made for their release. (See the 1 May 1974, 6 May and 10 June 1975 issues for previous reporting on this subject.) (UNCLASSIFIED)
